MAKING MENTAL HEALTH ESSENTIAL HEALTH

The Kennedy Forum seeks to revolutionize the way mental health care is delivered in America and create a future where diagnosis and treatment covers the brain and the body.

Launched in celebration of the 50th anniversary of President Kennedy’s signing of the landmark Community Mental Health Act, The Kennedy Forum leads a national dialogue on transforming the health care system by uniting mental health advocates, business leaders, and government agencies around a common set of principles, including full implementation of the Mental Health Parity and Addiction Equity Act of 2008 (Federal Parity Law). During his time in Congress, former U.S. Rep. Patrick J. Kennedy was lead sponsor of the Federal Parity Law, which requires insurers to cover treatment for mental health and substance use disorders no more restrictively than treatment for illnesses of the body, such as diabetes and cancer.

By advancing evidence-based practices, policies, and programming around mental health and addiction, The Kennedy Forum aims to achieve health equity for all.

The Kennedy Forum Illinois: A Local Nonprofit with National Reach

Launched in 2014, The Kennedy Forum Illinois promotes action around mental health and addiction in the state by focusing on stigma reduction, access to care, prevention, early intervention, and more. The organization serves as both a think tank and incubator for local and state level policies and programs that may be implemented across the country. The mission is to end stigma and discrimination against people living with mental health and substance use disorders by changing the system, not just the conversation.

COMMON GOALS

The Kennedy Forum and The Kennedy Forum Illinois work in pursuit of:

« Parity—Ensuring state and federal policymakers have the tools they need to craft better legislation that holds insurers accountable for providing equal coverage of mental health and substance use disorder treatment.

« Quality & Transparency—Ensuring the use of evidence-based care to improve patient care and outcomes.

« Integration—Ensuring those with mental health and substance use disorders will no longer face separate and unequal treatment by advancing a health care system that treats the body and the mind.

« Technology—Ensuring technological advances such as electronic medical records and telepsychiatry are embraced and adopted by as many providers as possible, thus increasing access to quality, connected care.

« Brain Health & Fitness—Ensuring early interventions, social emotional learning, and prevention strategies are prioritized at community, state, and federal levels.

“When it comes to mental health, our efforts as a nation must be comprehensive and not a series of quick temporary fixes.”

OUR WORDS MATTER: Harnessing the Power of Communications to Advance Mental Health Equity

Today’s society is hindered by an unconscious, implicit bias that fuels discrimination against those living with mental health and substance use disorders. Our words often reflect that bias, perpetuating negative stereotypes. There is an urgent need for more thoughtful, accurate communications about mental health and addiction that will open minds, connect communities, and empower policymakers. Now, more than ever, we must take steps to understand, nurture, and advance the role of communications in the fight for mental health equity. Normalizing a national conversation is key to lasting change. This year, The Kennedy Forum Annual Meeting will be held virtually in October to unite leaders in communications, media, advocacy, and activism to explore best practices and define a clear path forward.
